Making life safer for elderly people living at home.

Install a stove guard now!

ALL EFFORTS – AGAINST FIRES

Every year, many elderly people die in fires that start while they are preparing food. Stove fires are one of the most common causes of fire in Norwegian homes, and elderly people are particularly vulnerable. If you have parents living at home, you can help make life safer for them:

Treat them to a stove guard! It cuts off the power automatically if they forget to turn off the hob. It's a great investment that helps protect them from fire.

These days, a stove guard is a requirement in all new homes, and in older homes that are being rewired. Stove guards can be installed no matter which kind of stove you have, and they are extremely easy to use. Some people are also entitled to borrow stove guards from their local Centre for Assistive Technology.

You can find information about recommended models and where you can buy them on sikkerhverdag.no

'All efforts - against fires' is a multi-organisational, national fire prevention initiative. The objective of the initiative is to provide people with as much useful knowledge as possible to help them reduce their risk of fire.

Through national and local measures, we will target various at risk groups and provide them with information and knowledge. The idea is to mobilise various organisations that are experts in fire prevention work, for a coordinated effort towards the same goal: fewer fires. Our biggest focus will be on those segments of the population who are most likely to die in a fire.

The initiative is organised by The National Coordination Group for Fire Communication. This consists of The Directorate for Civil Protection, Local Electrical Safety Inspection Authorities (Det lokale eltilsyn), the Norwegian Fire Protection Association, Finance Norway, the Norwegian Fire Information Forum (Branninformasjonsforum), the Norwegian Association of Chimney Sweeps (Feiermesternes landsforening), the Norwegian Association of Fire Officers, the Register of Competent Companies (sakkyndige selskaper) and NELFO.
